The democratic Saturday didn't find time to consider any resolutions. They were wholly silent on the question of the submission of the prohibition amendment to a vote of the people. Doubtless they considered that the state convention delegates, who were heartily endorsed in their action by the liquor dealers at Rock Island, covered the ground. But Macon county voters would like to know the position of Macon county democrats on the question.

THE HANGING OF JESSE W. HANKS.

Distressing Suicide Near Argenta on Sunday Morning.

The startling news reached Decatur on Sunday at noon that Jesse W. Hanks had committed suicide that morning, by hanging himself in his stable on his farm in Friends Creek township, near Argenta.
Later information only served to confirm the report.

THE INQUEST.

It was learned at the inquest held on Sunday forenoon that Mr. Hanks and his wife did not live happily together, and that they had quarreled frequently about the domestic affairs. On Saturday last, the couple indulged in another quarrel, when Mr. Hanks assaulted his wife with a billy with which he struck her behind the ear, making a scar and causing the blood to flow. He had a razor, and as he had threatened to send her to her long home, it was believed that he intended to kill her; but in this purpose he was frustrated.
The family gathered about the breakfast table on Sunday morning, and Mr. Hanks acted heartily. He told his sons that they needn't watch him any more, that he didn't intend to do himself or any one else any harm. After leaving the table he took one of his sons to go and feed the hogs and he would go to the old stable and sail the horses. He took a cup filled with salt and started alone toward the stable.
On the way he was observed to stoop and pick up a rope halter with a ring tied to one end of it. This he put into his pocket as he walked alone. He was seen to enter the old stable, and it was supposed he would return to the house shortly, but he did not, and some one of the boys went to the stable to learn what was developing his father. On entering the barn the lifeless form of Mr. Hanks was found hanging from the end of a rope.

DANGLING AT THE END OF A ROPE.

The farmer had deliberately hung himself. He had used the rope halter, which was not much larger in diameter than a bed cord. By slipping one end through the ring, he formed a noose, and then tied it to the cross-pole above a stall. Climbing up one side of the stall, he had slipped the noose about his neck, and then loosened his hold on the stall and struggled to death in a few minutes. Had he repeated the act before death ensued, he could have easily released himself, as the rope was short and he was in easy reach of his arms. His feet were less than 20 inches from the floor of the stable. Mr. Hanks was a powerfully built man. He weighed over 200 pounds, and it was with some difficulty that he was taken down.

THE VERDICT.

The inquest was held under the supervision of Mr. Charles Towers, justice of the peace and acting coroner. The verdict was as follows:

At an inquest taken for the people of the state of Illinois, before Charles Towers, J. P., at the house of Jesse W. Hanks, in the town of Friends Creek, in Macon county, on the 24th day of September, A.
D. 1892, upon the body of Jesse W. Hanks, then and there lying dead, the jury, to-wits, Wm. H. Wagoner, David M.
Kirkland, Wm. Griffin and Thomas H.
Combs, on oath do find that the deceased came to his death by hanging, done with his own hands, at his own stable, on his own farm, in the town and county aforesaid, on the morning of the 24th day of September, A. D. 1892.

Wm. H. Wagoner, Foreman.
D. M. Adams,
Wm. Griffin,
J. G. Kizer,
J. T. Clough,
J. L. Connelly,
H. C. Johns,
H. C. Moore.

Mr. Hanks was one of the best known and most successful farmers in Macon county. He owned about 440 acres of improved land and considerable personal property. His age was about 52 years.
He leaves a wife, to whom he was married last February, and five children, four boys and one girl, the fruit of his first marriage. The maiden name of his first wife was Miss Campbell, whom he married when he was 18 years of age. 21 years ago. Miss Nye was the name of his second wife.

The family and friends of the deceased are terribly shocked by the dreadful act of the man who had such a large acquantance in this county, where he has resided since his birth. His wife is inconsolable. It is stated that she wanted to return to her home several days ago, and that Mr. Hanks in reply had stated that he would take her to her long home. No doubt Mr. Hanks had contemplated suicide for several days. On Saturday he called his youngest son to his side and told him to be a good boy, and do the best he could for himself in this life, for he would never live to raise him.

Jesse W. Hanks was born in Decatur, Ill., March 24, 1839, and has lived in this county ever since, and at his late home thirteen years. On March 7, 1859, he was united in marriage to Martha Campbell, who died Sept. 24, 1889, and by whom he had six children, five of whom died.
George W. John W. Cyrus E., and Hardiah are living. The first three are married and all live near Argenta with the exception of the oldest son, who at present lives in Christian county. Mr. Hanks was married to Miss Nye, his second wife, on Sept. 17, 1890, and she survives him.

The funeral of Mr. Hanks took place today from Union Church, in Friends Creek township, Elder John W. Tyler officiating.

Burnt Out.

The information reached the city Saturday evening of a disastrous conflagration which occurred on the Samuel McRoberts' farm, a few miles east of Decatur on Friday forenoon. The dwelling house occupied by the tenant, Mr. H. C.
Fruit and family, caught fire from a defective stove and was entirely consumed, together with all the household effects, except a portion of the bed clothing. Mr.
Fruit and his family are now in destitute circumstances and are sadly in need of immediate help from the benevolent public. The house was fully insured.

Dramatic.

To-morrow evening at the opera house the graduating exercises of Mrs. M. L.
Cain's dramatic school will be observed, and it promises to be a literary event of lively interest. The class includes Misses Lena Henkle, Lillian B. Irwin, Mrs. M.
J. Hughes and Mrs. M. J. Moser, who will be aided in the graduating entertainment by a number of the pupils of the children's classes. Mrs. Cain will assume the role of the fair Juliet, and the balcony scene in "Romeo and Juliet" will be presented in a realistic manner by her and one of her pupils. Admission, 50 and 25 cents. No extra charge for reserved seats.

Church Notes.

On Sunday our church going people had the pleasure of listening to four powerful sermons, two of which were delivered at the Presbyterian church and two at the First M. E. church. The pulpit at the former church was occupied by Rev.
Foxworthy, of the Methodist conference in the forenoon, and at the evening hour Rev. (Hillmore, of Harristown, officiated.
Rev. Foxworthy preached at the Methodist church in the evening, and Rev. Gill-more in the morning. There were good congregations present at the services and the closest attention was accorded the visiting divines.

Rev. C. B. Roberts delivered a fine sermon at the Baptist church yesterday, on "The need of an educated ministry."

It is known that there will be no change of Methodist pastors in Decatur.
Rev. Dimmitt and Rev. Musgrave will be retained here by the Bishop. Conference will adjourn on Tuesday.

Pleasant Sunday Party.

On Saturday last occurred the fifth anniversary of the birth of Master George Dimmitt, the precious son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dimmitt. The event was made the occasion of a party in George's honor, which was given at the family home Saturday afternoon, and it proved a jolly affair. Those present were Daisy Stallard, Ora Bradley, Beatrice Bradley, Theresa Frank, Floetie Downing, Lillie Lee, Nettie and Ida Weigand, Clarence Haddock, Freddie Downing, Freddie Wisner and Cora Watson. At five o'clock the company of little folks were served with refreshments in abundance, and the celebration soon afterward reached a happy conclusion. George received a great many handsome presents from his friends, tokens of their good wishes.

A Church Affair.

The members of the Ladies' Missionary Society will give a social and entertainment at the Christian Church on Thursday evening, Sept. 28th. A fine program will be observed. It will include vocal and instrumental music and literary selections. Choice refreshments will be served. Admission free. All are invited. 25c—434

The Wabash brakeman, named Lou Williams, who met with a painful accident in the L. D. & S. yard on Friday evening, resting comfortably at the Walsh House. He was under the influence of liquor when he was struck down, and one of his limbs was crushed between the knee and the ankle. The limb has not yet been amputated. Dr. Cass Chenoweth says the circulation appears to be good, and he will try to save the limb.
Williams' home is in Chicago.

We have received the first number of The Weekly Sun six-column quarto in size, a straight out republican paper just started at Sedalia, Mo., by Mr. Gust. F.
Kimball, formerly editor of the departed Decatur Sun, and a Mr. Goodrich. The new venture promises well, and if there is anybody in Missouri who can do good work for the republicans that man is Mr.
Kimball. He is a man of principle, and has plenty of endurance to stay with the Republicans until the jig is up. The Sun is filled with terse articles from the pen of the chief editor, who will continue to make things lively round about Sedalia for the democrats.

On last Tuesday a telegram was sent from Constable Weitzel, at Decatur, to Arrest W. E. Dukes, of this place. Policemen Holt and Gullet made the arrest.
Dukes remained in the custody of the officers until morning, when he was discharged, as there was no one came from Decatur to take charge of the prisoner.
Later in the day another dispatch came, saying that Dukes had been released, and was not to be found. It is not known positively what the charges are against Mr. Dukes, but it is understood that they are for molesting property that did not belong to him. Macon News, 23d.

SEVERAL NIGHT NILES, Evans, Bryant & A. Hays' elegant new variety company, is the attraction announced at the opera house, and admirers of thoroughly first-class specialties and clever bits of comedy should be out in force. It is safe to say that no variety party looked for the ensuing season will present a coterie of stronger cards than "The Meteors." Popular prices 35, 50 and 75 cents. Reserved seats at Curtis & Co.'s without extra charge.

WILL POSTING, aged 15 years, son of J.
C. Posting, of Stoneington, Ill., was accidentally killed near Pekin on Saturday last. He was taking some of his father's stock to Pekin to exhibit at the state fair.
He was crushed to death by a refrain box falling upon him. The remains were brought to Decatur on Sunday and sent to Stoneington during the afternoon. Mr. Posting exhibited Hereford cattle at our late fair, and the deceased was here then with his father.

Fair and Festival.

A Grand Fair and Festival will be given for the benefit of the hospital at the Tabernacle, beginning on Thursday evening, Sept. 28th, and ending Saturday evening. Dinner and supper will be served every day, and the fair and festival in the evening. A number of elegant articles will be voted off, among them a lady's wig, watch and gent's watch. Everybody is invited, and it is hoped when the committee waits upon the citizens they will contribute to make this a success.

convention. He was an earnest supporter of Dr. Phillips, of Macon, for coroner; but the doctor was laid on the shelf when the vote was taken.

Mrs. H. C. Milne arrived home Saturday evening from Clinton after an absence of two weeks. She was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. W. Barger, of Atkinson, Neb., who will remain in Decatur several weeks.

Capt. R. P. Lytle returned home from Milwaukee last Saturday. He attended the reunion of the Army of the Camberland, and also attended the grand bunquet. The silk and satin fills of fairs, and each ornamented with gold fringe and a silk bag, cost about $250 apiece. The Captain brought one home with him.

The remains of the late Miss O'Connor were brought here Sunday from Illinois on a special train over the Wabash, accompanied by a large company of friends.
The body was taken to the Catholic cemetery and laid at rest in the grave.

THERE were two runaways at Boiling Springs church on Sunday. John Trimmer's buggy was made a complete wreck, and a son of Mr. Stevenson and a young man named Hays were thrown out of a road cart. No one seriously hurt.

SPECIAL scenery will be provided for the balcony scene in "Romeo and Juliet" to be given at the opera house to-morrow evening, in connection with the graduating exercises of Mrs. Cain's dramatic school. Mrs. Cain will take the part of Juliet. 25c—434
